What happens if I am called for interview?

Reasonable steps must be taken to check the identity of job applicants. People called for interview are, therefore, asked to provide photographic and documentary evidence of their identity. This can be a passport or new style driving licence and at least one recent item of address related evidence e.g. a utility (gas or electric etc) bill. If you do not have a passport or new style driving licence, your original birth certificate should be provided. If you have changed your name by deed poll or any other method, evidence of this will also be required.

Are any background checks made?

Anyone offered employment at this school will be subject to an enhanced disclosure and barring service check before the appointment is confirmed. We will also seek to references to support your application.

Failure to declare information or the provision of false information could lead to the withdrawal of the offer of employment or dismissal.

How will any criminal record information be used?

It is recognised that information provided on any disclosure is confidential and we will comply with the DBS code of practice; any information received will be handled carefully and in accordance with the provisions of the Data Protection Act.

- A criminal record will not necessarily stop an applicant obtaining a job (subject to particular circumstances or convictions, which make it unlawful to make an appointment). Any spent convictions will not be taken into account unless the job is exempt under the law and recruitment procedures will be based on an objective assessment of a person's ability. etc)
